This latest Fifth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) will again form the standard scientific reference for all those concerned with climate change and its consequences, including students and researchers in environmental science, meteorology, climatology, biology, ecology and atmospheric chemistry. It provides invaluable material for decision makers and stakeholders: international, national, local; and in all branches: government, businesses, and NGOs. This volume provides:

- An authoritative and unbiased overview of the physical science basis of climate change
- A more extensive assessment of changes observed throughout the climate system than ever before
- New dedicated chapters on sea-level change, biogeochemical cycles, clouds and aerosols, and regional climate phenomena
- A more extensive coverage of model projections, both near-term and long-term climate projections
- A detailed assessment of climate change observations, modelling, and attribution for every continent
- A new comprehensive atlas of global and regional climate projections for 35 regions of the world

UNEP Year Book 2009: New Science and Developments in our Changing Environment presents work in progress on scientific understanding of global environmental change, as well as foresight about possible issues on the horizon. The aim is to raise awareness of the interlinkages among environmental issues that can accelerate the rates of change and threaten human wellbeing. The chapters of the Year Book track the same trajectory as our awareness of environmental change. Transformations are inherent to this trajectory and are taking place on many fronts: from industrial agriculture to eco-agriculture; from a wasteful society towards a resource efficient one; and from a triad of competing interests among civil society, the private sector, and governments to a more cooperative model based on mutual benefits.
